GANHRI publishes its first ever Annual Report, covering activities, progress and achievements in 2017.

These includes:

- Growing number of members - as of May 2017, 78 NHRIs are accredited with ‘A’ status and 33 with ‘B’ status;
- Increased awareness on the prominent role of NHRIs in early warning, conflict prevention and re-establishment of peaceful societies, as evidenced in the Annual Conference closing statement;
- Successful advocacy for greater participation of NHRIs in UN processes and mechanisms;
- Adoption of the Strategic Plan (2017-2019) covering three pillars: (i) organisation’s thematic working areas, (ii) communication and knowledge sharing activities, and (iii) institutional development, including partnerships.

The report also contains perspectives and, in particular looks at the 25th anniversary of the endorsement of the Paris Principles by the United Nations General Assembly and the establishment of the global network of NHRIs, today known as GANHRI.
